To Whom It May Concern,

During the 2010 election cycle Bobby Schilling For Congress agreed to have Consolidated Capital and Consulting provide Ballot Security services on November 2, 2010.

We were invoiced for these services and planned to use our 2010 Debt Retirement and 2012 Primary funds to pay the Consolidated Capital invoice. However, we found out in the coming weeks after the election that the services agreed upon were not actually rendered by Consolidated Capital.

On numerous occasions, we asked them to prove that the ballot security measures agreed upon were carried out and completed as discussed between the two parties. They failed to do this.

During the 2012 election cycle we continued to reach out to Consolidated Capital for proof of services and did not receive any documentation. In the 2014 election cycle we did not receive any communication from Consolidated Capital, and the company is now out of business.

Therefore as of our October 15, 2015 Quarterly Report Bobby Schilling For Congress is writing off the debt to Consolidated Capital, as the invoice is not due and will not be paid. We are not paying the invoice due to Consolidated Capital because the services invoiced were not rendered.
